Two Girls Succeed Themselves; Soph Head Promoted

Kathryn McCollum, Harriet Culler, and Dorothy McCown were elected the 1938-39 presidents of the rising senior, junior, and sophomore classes at class meetings this week.

Kathryn, from Clemson, is now president of the Junior class and a Washington representative in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." She is also a director of the Junior Folies. She is a member of Beta Beta Beta and Kappa Phi.

Harriet, from Winthrop, is now president of the sophomore class and chairman of the program committee for Parents' Day. She was elected May Day attendant her freshman and sophomore years, and she was treasurer of her class her freshman year. She is president of the Methodist State Student conference, a member of Delia's society, and Psi Phi social club.

Dorothy, from Florence, is now vice president of her class, a reporter on The Johnsonian staff, and a member of Psi Phi social club.

1938 Junior Folies 'Campus Queen' to Be Thursday Night

McCollum Directs; Coleman, Sifton And Cary Are Starred

The Junior class will present "Campus Queen," the 1938 edition of Junior Folies, written and directed by Kathryn McCollum, president, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Main auditorium.

Starring in "Campus Queen" are Frances "Honey" Coleman, Lella Sifton, and Mary Cary. The supporting cast, chosen by Lydia Smith, includes Caroline Ryle, Betty Smith, Mary Edwards, Louise Paul, Bessie Davis, Nancy Berry, Virginia Smith, Mary Barnes, Mary Crawford, and Mary Rosemary Cross as a dance soloist.

The scene of "Campus Queen" is the campus of a college in the past, and is the story of Bob Travis and Rita Leland and their ups and downs in trying to get on the senior year. The campus and night club atmosphere is rendered excellent opportunity for the display of talent. The production is the effort of Miss Kathryn McCollum, chairman of the committee on choruses. Serving as director are the directors of the various dances: Eugene Kennedy, Betty Ryle, Betty Smith, Catherine Edwards, Julia Ferguson, Miss Evans, and Bess Dargan.

Made for the Folies will be furnished by the following: pianist, Frances Williams, Elizabeth Wilson, Sally Lindsey, Mary Edwards, and Margaret Sanders.

Editorial Asides

Bighorners at Brynau university must qualify for acceptance in its School of Education. Since the inception of this plan in Planning 1934, one out of each To Teach three candidates has been eliminated.

The selective system was established to make ridiculous the old saying "These who can, do; those who can't, teach."

Student applicants are required to have interviews with four experienced teachers and administrators and a professor of the academic department in which they are specializing. Candidates are rated on appearance, poise, manners, conversational ability, use of English, and probable influence on pupils.

Other factors involved in advancement include health, speech, hearing, no drink standing, records of psychological examinations, English proficiency, and knowledge of contemporary affairs.

It might be wise for each "ed" student here to rate herself on these qualities and see whether the above is a teacher, both through examinations and such rigid rules for admission may seem harsh, but think of the remarkably high percentage of really good teachers it must produce!

William P. Russell, dean of Teachers college, Columbia university, has an interesting article in Sunday's New York Times Magazine called "Are Business and Education Pulling Apart?"

The article was raised recently at Teachers college forum and is presented (quoting) by Dr. Russell in this article.

In brief he thinks the business man says, "Children need discipline, effort, and hard work. The teaching profession has gone radical, preaching communism and condemning capitalism. America can not afford to pay the exorbitant bills for an extensive education system such as ours."

MAY DAY THEME ANNOUNCED BY JEAN M'LAURIN

Author-Director Appoints Chairmen Of Fete Committees

An Egyptian theme for the 1938 May Day and committee chairmen have been announced by Jean McLaurin, president of the senior class and director of the program. The exercises this year will be May 7.

Committee chairmen are as follows: Harriet Morgan, program; Alice White, costumes; Maudie Lynch Walker, music; Crystal Thordore, properties; Roberta Marsh, business manager; and Mae Allen Hayden of the physical education department, faculty adviser.

The story is adapted from an Egyptian fairy tale and will be a combination of talents represented by the mythological characters and a group of dancers. According to Jean, the dances will be starting and the costumes effective.

Members of the committee and the dancers will be announced later.

Notice

The day dancers are invited to be the guests of the college over-night Saturday, March 26. You are cordially invited to have supper Saturday evening and breakfast Sunday morning in the Main Dining Hall.

Miss Zirbes to be Teacher Exchange Week Speaker

Emphasis Will Be On Reading During Meet

Miss Laura Zirbes of the department of education of Ohio State university will be the principal speaker at the Spring Teacher Exchange program, April 11-16, according to Superintendent O. M. Mitchell of Winthrop Training School. She will discuss in a series of lectures "The Activity Program and Its Introduction Into School Life" with special emphasis given to reading.

For several years Miss Zirbes has been acknowledged as an authority in the teaching of reading and in the practical development of the activity program. She comes nationally recognized as a leader in accepted trends in education.

"The opportunity of conferences and discussions with Miss Zirbes will be most valuable to every teacher contemplating introducing a program of activities," writes Mr. Mitchell to the prospective exchange teachers.

FOUR ATTEND S. A. C. S. S. MEET

President and Mrs. Shelia Phelps, Miss G. Kelly, registrar, and Miss Bishop, secretary to the president left this morning for Dallas, Texas, where they will attend the forty-second annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Dr. Phelps is secretary and treasurer of the association.

The conference will be closed from March 31 to April 1 in the Adolphus hotel, Dallas.

A banquet in the Adolphus hotel will be a feature of the program. The Reverend Matthew Arnold, Cleburne, Texas, will be the guest speaker.

Winthrop Will Debate Colgate, Georgia Tech

Winthrop debaters will meet Tuesday night at Colgate university to discuss the issues of leadership, poise, and attractiveness.

Eliza is at present a member of the Y. She is a member of the Archimedes, National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, Secondary Education club, and Sigma Kappa Sigma social club. She is a member of Phi Kappa Phi and the Phi Delta Theta.

The query on both occasions will be "Resolved: That the National Labor Relations board should be empowered to enforce arbitration of industrial disputes."

Two Handsome New Buildings Bring Greater Winthrop Nearer Realization

Contracts have been let for both the new auditorium and music conservatory building and the home economics and nursery school buildings, new structures to be added to the Winthrop college campus as authorized by the 1937 General Assembly.

The auditorium will have a capacity of 3,500 and will have three balconies. The stage will be adequate to accommodate the largest road shows and plays.

At the rear of the auditorium will be a music conservatory to house the entire music department. Plans are provided for studios, class rooms, orchestra rooms, soundproof practice rooms, and also an assembly room for student recitals with a seating capacity of 400.

The contract for the home economics and nursery school buildings was awarded to the J. J. McDevitt Company of Charlotte. The architects are Hopkins and Baker of Florence and Columbia. These buildings are expected to be completed by December 1, 1938, and will cost $202,470.

The home economics plant will consist of four floors plus attic space and will house the home demonstration and home economics research departments.

High School Music Contest to Be at Winthrop April 20-22

Hughes, Church, and Williamson Chosen To Judge Competitions; Marching Bands Maneuvers To Be Held Friday Night

Plans for the twelfth annual contest in music for South Carolina high schools to be held at Winthrop College April 20, 21, and 22, have been completed, according to Dr. Walter B. Roberts, head of the music department at Winthrop, and chairman of the event.

Judges for the competitions, which are expected to bring 1,500 high school students to the campus, will be three musicians and teachers outstanding in the East. Edwin Hughes, New York musician, and will be held Friday morning on all three classes. At the same time, orchestras, small reed, string, and brass ensemble performances will be introduced. Class A, B, and C bands will play on Friday afternoon at 4:30 with the Class B and C girls' glee club rendition. Junior high school chorus members will be heard also.

Band Maneuvers

On Friday night, the most spectacular part of the contest will be staged when the marching bands from several high schools put on their maneuvers on the athletic field. Following this event, in the main auditorium will be the major chorus competitions for Classes A, B, and C. The "a capella" choir contests will close the three-day program.

New Events

Five new events have been added to the contest this year. They are as follows: Organ solo, piano duo, piano trio, "a capella" choir, and band Class C which consists of those bands which have been graded since September, 1938.

Girl contestants will be granted in the college dormitories for room accommodations. Committee members have arranged to house the boys and adults in Rock Hill homes. A college cafeteria in Johnson Hall will provide meals for the groups.

Entrants for entry into any of the contests, according to Dr. Roberts, must be sent to his office at Winthrop college by Monday, April 18.

66 STUDENTS TO GO TO FESTIVAL

Glee Club To Be In State-Wide College Chorus At Columbia

Sixty-six Winthrop students, including the members of the College glee club will attend the second annual Columbia Music Festival sponsored by the Seaboard Choral society in the Township auditorium at Columbia, S. C., tomorrow.

Miss Grace Moore, Metropolitan Opera star and movie actress; Hans Kandler and his National Symphony orchestra; Dallas Parsons and Walter Lecker, pianists; the Seaboard chorus, the state-wide college chorus composed of singers from South Carolina colleges and conducted by Hans Kandler, are the main features of the program.

The state-wide college chorus is to be composed of 320 singers, and each college in South Carolina is to be represented, with the exception of Clemson, which has no glee club. Last year the all-state college chorus was an experiment, and because of the many requests a chorus is being attempted again this year.

The program for the festival includes the following:

8:30 p. m., March 25—National Symphony orchestra, Seaboard chorus, and Walter Lecker, piano; winner of the 1937 Audition contest.

3:00 p. m., March 26—National Symphony orchestra, state-wide college chorus, and Dallas Parsons, pianist.

8:30 p. m., March 26—National Symphony orchestra, Seaboard chorus, and Miss Grace Moore, soprano.

The majority of Winthrop students plan to attend only the last two of these performances; however, a few will leave on Friday afternoon to attend the Friday night performance also.

WILFRED GIVES COLOR SYMPHONY

Clavilux Recital Is Next Artist Course Number

A Clavilux recital, a presentation of bands, or art of light, will be given by Thomas Wilfred in Main auditorium April 11 to the eighth Winthrop artist course number.

Mr. Wilfred is not only the inventor of the Clavilux, an organ-like instrument which controls colors as they are projected on a screen, but also the composer of many of his presentations.

His recital will consist of a number of compositions, each of which controls about some theme or interprets various moods and qualities. The Clavilux will be operated much as would an organ and will cause a symphony of color, movement, and beauty on the screen behind which it is placed.

The audience thus sees an expanse of white become alive and vibrant with moving lights and shadows as each performance takes place.

Lumia is new to the Winthrop audience and to many others as well, for it has only been in existence 10 years, having been developed by the Art Institute of Light in New York City.

Boaty To U. N. C. Meet On "Marriage And Family"

Honey Boaty, rising senior from Anderson, was elected by the Y cabinet to represent Winthrop at the fourth annual conference on "Conservation of Marriage and the Family" at the University of North Carolina on April 12-15.

The attendance at this conference has been limited to 100 students—teachers, doctors, psychologists, and parents—and 25 students from outstanding colleges and universities.

The program under the direction of Dr. Ernest R. Groves, head of the Institute of Research in Social Science, will include discussions of problems of teachers of marriage and family courses and also actual problems of marriage and family experience.

The recital here is one of many which will be presented by Mr. Wilfred in a transcontinental tour during the season 1937-38.

Gauged By Projects

To determine the values and influence of extension work for the people at the state the South Carolina Home Demonstration department at Winthrop is conducting a series of projects.

One study, completed at the end of last year, was made with 600 young people in six counties. In this study it was found that the young people of South Carolina are more interested in general activities than those of other states. As a result of these figures older youth clubs in nine counties have been organized.

At present, surveys are being made in Aiken, Marlboro, and Clarendon counties on the influence of extension service in a community.

Members from the state staff assisting with this program are Miss Loney L. Landrum, Miss Eleanor Carson, chairman; Mrs. T. D. Poyden; and the Misses Harriet S. Layton, Elizabeth Watson, and Myra Reagan.

A third survey to be made soon will be on the influence of 4-H club work on boys and girls. This will be made in two counties, York and another county, and will be done by Dr. H. H. Johnson from the Washington office will conduct this study, and Miss Margaret Martin, home demonstrator at York county, will serve as chairman.

WITH MARGARET McHILLAN

Henry: Up-and-to-missing over Margaret would's idea of "A Post-Youth" before the morning repeat. Then in a dash to clean, she came in a manner quite different, than the usual ordinary for those rates of nature known as four-laf clovers. "This was Day of St. Patrick, and no amount in sight-and, no makes either, of course. . . ."

Then, this is a day of St. Patrick. Then, to that remarkable place in Main building where approximately 3,000 letters are received daily, to find one for myself, and 1,000 for those other more fortunate individuals. . . . To reading the latest about Europe, about style, about books, and so to lunch, and a conversation about the holidays-to-come, which are inevitable, I hope, but then, so are the conversations about them. . . . The show went, and to see O'Brien's "Yach." In the person of Robert Taylor, who came to be not unlike Mark Twain's character under the circumstances. Back in a shower, which, of course, will bring May flowers, but which didn't bring a ride, however. A game of ping-pong was in progress before the hour of eating. . . . To action of The New Yorker, and the sparkling contents of The Reader's Digest. . . . Then books of a different aspect until Miss Horne's nighty night—and so to bed, after wondering how one such as I could, after possibly become launched on such a high-scale cartoon.

Add Amusing Articles:
Henry O. Link's "Assessments and Personality" in The Readers Digest for March. Remembered him from last summer's development of "The Return to Religion."
Foster from France:

A woman correspondent wrote: "All I have to say to my husband is, 'Are you going to lose the keys or your pen?' (And then he either does or doesn't, of course)."

"You Brits expect such a lot from your climate," said a foreign visitor. (Yes, and they get it, too)."

"Any kind of accommodation in or near the recognized center of the London apartment is hard to overdo, says a writer. (Add, even the garb of Wimpole Street)."

Add Delusions: "Symptoms: A word used to take the place of the word you want, but can't say."

Though the White Waiting for a Messenger's "Milestones" with the tendency to be "slightly overdone" wouldn't be in that category if they gave less attention to their daily doings. . . . Someone should follow Marylin's Billie's example and write suggestions on "How Not to Live Alone and Like It" and dedicate it to married people—or even, perhaps, roommates.

These drowsy days tend to make one feel like the bee in Gray's Ring—no, I have never seen an insect in the form of a bee in Main building without taking a peek into it. . . . It's as inevitable as our wanting more sleep tomorrow. . . . Nothing is good for giving some people something so much which to think while they're chattering.

"The Revolt of the Angels" by Anatole France is a very entertaining and mysterious book about angels in Paris and their efforts. The protagonists of the subject, Miror, Bouchette, and Zita in love, to which always give pleasure, for a tale without love is like food without mustard—an insipid dish. Come then the happy couple who lived in heaven less than France, (which has a savings bank and loan department).

"The Revolt of the Angels" is indeed an odd book. Read it when you are in the mood to be surprised by nothing.

"A broker sold me not long ago of the lowered procedure connected with the transfer of real estate. The law is, 'I fully recused the practice in his backyard days in Sweden.'"

"When my father sold his farm, he and the buyer went out in arm out of a corner of the field. The money was paid over; when my father reached down, picked up a handful of dirt and placed it in the hand of the other man. They shook hands and the deal was completed, and the title was never questioned."—William P. McDermott, this week, "N. Y. Herald-Tribune."

WILD AND WOOLLY—OR JUST PLAIN IGNORANT?

During the last ten years, and especially in the last year, a great deal has been written about the utter carelessness of youth. (Indeed we are inclined to believe that every generation thinks the one just following it is the very worst yet.) Hardly a magazine last fall failed to carry several articles of this type: "What is Your Daughter Doing Tonight?" "These Young People of Ours," "The Case for Chastity," and on and on.

Some of these statistics were very fair and showed both sides of the situation, but others painted only the rosy side of the maladjusted boy and girl. But all indicated one important thing—the growing interest of adults and their concerns for the sociological youth—his powers and problems, whether physical, mental, or social.

Our elders are learning very, very much about us these days. After so many years of tragic neglect they are finally discovering how to handle and control their headstrong adolescents. Sorrowfully the wiser, more progressive ones are admitting that they themselves are directly responsible for much of the condemned habits and practices. Theirs is basically the fault—not ours.

It is stark ignorance of facts that makes our inherent right to make that makes drunkards and debauchees, thrill-seekers and nervous, disillusioned wrecks of so many of us today!

Some parents, either because of false modesty or lack of real information, have been unable to fulfill their natural duty. The school for the most part has completely ignored the opportunity repeatedly thrust in its face. We, as comparatively independent individuals, have had to know.

We have found out—yes—but the source of our information was probably far from being a desirable one and the facts were far from being true. No wonder that we go off at horrible tangents! After all, suddenly discovering that one has a mind and a body both with enormous potentialities is a rather overwhelming, upsetting realization.

However, if we are prepared for this discovery, if we respect it and understand it, we will be the kind of young people that make a strong society. We will be strong young people. But we must know first!

In short, sociologists, psychologists, educators in general and a few mamas and papas have come to the conclusion that all a youth needs in order to live a sane, harmless, and constructive life is education. This education the school must supply, for mamas and papas have, in many cases, sadly failed. The natural and most valuable place for this would be in high school. To strengthen and supplement this training colleges should give courses containing more scientific, detailed information.

During the last well will require carefully trained, sympathetic teachers. And we as young people who have felt an unanswered need will probably be those teachers.

The challenge, however, is still yours—O parents and teachers. Without your help we can never carry the torch you give to us, for the taper will never have been lit.

Rat Nibbles

BY FLORENCE FRENCH

Have you seen the variegated color schemes of the male visitors on campus? There were all shades of green, blue, tan, and gray, but the cream of the crop for was it the cheese? Was that orange suit last Sunday? And also on the campus was a really handsome fellow, the usual Clemson following—what's this we hear, Emily?

Seems that "Tummy" is besting Eugene's Cary's time. He feels so good these spring days that he spends his mornings in the front fountain. How 'bout a dual victory, Genia?

The first day of spring found Kathryn Myers and her Perseus on "all fours" hunting four leaf clovers. He marked a premarital passer-by "About the only luck they'll have will be finding one!" And the same day was an inspiration for colored shorts, baseball, and gymnastics to Alice McFar, Midge Bailey, Angela Goldsboro, and Jo Overa.

Lavinia Britt, from New Jersey, whose family never sees the flowers we have here, finds the sweetest blossoms on our campus and sends her letters with them.

What's this about six dressmakers freshmen who are so convinced that a widow at 11:30 p. m. that a matron and two board members came forth and expelled the teacher for slapping-out? Some bit of nighty night, we call it.

Gert Douglas, the absent-minded-one, tried off for town with a board member and casually mentioned that she hadn't checked out P. R. B. the casualty got a "campus," too.

Ervin Davies in the parlor Sunday night . . . Neely lost her day . . . Jean McFadyen reports that she didn't show off that V. P. I. uniform on the Winthrop campus last weekend instead of in Charlotte.

How does Carolyn Douglas do nothing to tip tips in baseball class at week and on the weekends she's still Tipping "Tops" (in the parlor)?

Did you know that Carolyn's father and her go around absorbing strength? Don't blame her, such lovely slippers, please!

With spring holidays only four days out of the campus stage with such remarks as, "can hardly wait," "Just think, next week this time," and "What a time, I'm gonna have spring holidays—1 hope, I hope, I hope."

Perhaps it's the spring; anyway Prof. Thompson turns philosopher and says:

"College is like a laundry—you get out of it what you put into it, but you never would recognize it."

Louisa McFadyen says two heads are better than one and offers proof: Two boys entered a famous northern college. One was talented along the scientific line, the other was heavily inclined. They entered as one person, using one name in the registrar's office. Each took classes in which he could "shine" and made A's—both using the same name, remember. Finally the professors began to discuss the genius of the campus. A chemistry professor said to a French professor:

"Have you heard about the brilliant student who is making such a high record in all his courses?"

"Yes, a tall red-headed fellow."

"No-o-o, on the contrary, he is rather short with black hair."

And so the boys were discovered, but it was too late for one of them.

There is a freshman up here who thought up until a few weeks ago that the song "I Want to Be a Winthrop College" was "I Want to Be in Winthrop College."

Here is a tip for Winthrop girls from Mel and Patti, two freshmen:

Home are red, Violets are blue, Sugar is sweet, And falling, too!

Did you hear about the freshman who planned to be a physical education major because she was in love with a boy named James? . . . Are you the first of pain trees? . . . Even one letter from the alphabet is valuable—no word and said—then that word a letter from the Oxford world of . . .

It's a rain a wet trick. . . . In Spring Four Love Sickens. . . . No wonder that classroom windows have pans, the holes they have bored in them by the vacant stars. . . . And also time to stay by their garden or else her garden live for her?

The clipping this week was found in The News and Courier; it is a poem submitted by Clancy, Jr. and Mabel.

Non-Objective Dances (Or What Have You) . . . to the North, Spring is here to stay. The brook is busy Q-ing. White water whips away.

Town Girls Spend Weekend in Dormitories For Second Time During This Year

Town girls enrolled at Winthrop have been invited to spend this weekend as guests of the college. This is the first time the day students have been asked to visit on the campus since October during the year last fall.

Each town student will be individually invited by one of her friends to spend the night in her room. Following night supper and Sunday morning breakfast will be served them in the college dining room.

Various parties have been planned for the town guests over the weekend. They will also attend the Saturday night show in Main auditorium. After 7 o'clock, town girl chairman of the Y, is in charge of the arrangements.

Y Entertains For Those Born in March and July

A birthday party with white ice cream and a big white cake will be given in Johnson hall tonight at 8:30 by the Y. The students and officers of Winthrop born in March and July will be honor guests.

Receiving the guests will be Jane Toy, Edith Steyer, Betty Bradford, Agnes Soussan, Helen Maule, Mary Ann, and Lillian Heath. Members of the Y Cabinet will assist in entertaining, and Dean Kate Hardin will cut the cake.

Members of the Y social committee will serve. They are: Edith Steyer, Nell Wade, Jennie Ward, Mary Paulman, Florence Forcher, Mary Jane O'Brien, Evelyn Connolly, Eleanor Edmondson, and Mary Lamar Edmondson.

Entertainers Form Club

The Winthrop college glee club entertained the Purman glee club in Johnson hall Wednesday afternoon from 4:30 to 8 o'clock. The Purman glee club gave a concert Wednesday night at Training School.

Spring Holidays

Forecast Of May Day Tragedy Made Public

Belle Sue Fisher had better watch out. A seismograph has been marked for a black day come May the 1st. The seismograph was typing the story under the May Court picture the other day. She started it: "When the mail of honor, Rebecca, March, arrived from Edgeland, Edgeland Belle Sue Fisher, senior from Greenwood, May Queen..."

Junior Folies Cast Given Party At Last Rehearsal

Junior Folies dress rehearsal... a cast list for everything but salt and food... a perfect setting for a party... a party it is... Monday night on the set of the Folies in Main auditorium the cast will entertain in honor of the cast. The atmosphere will be indeed a theatrical one.

The choruses are furnishing the food and the cast the drink. Charles Hiley will be the hostess in charge of the party in honor of the last rehearsal.

North Has Kid Party

A kid party will be given for children in North dormitory after the show tomorrow night. A prize will be given to the oldest child. Competent judges will be in charge of this contest.

Children's games will be played on the lawn, and baby food will be served after the play hour.

Bancroft Has Dance

An informal dance was held in Bancroft last Saturday night. The room and white table scheme carried out the St. Patrick's day motif. Byrd Bagwell, who was in charge of refreshments, Doris Terry, and Bill Gibson served punch and cookies.

Visitors At Winthrop

Mary Wright, graduate Senior Order member of last year, was a guest at Winthrop Sunday. Elizabeth Vaughan, Dorothy Parks, Edna Frances Elbert, and Betty Jo Wade, four high school seniors from Jonesville, S. C., spent last weekend at Winthrop. These girls are visiting every girl's school in the state prior to entering college next fall.

Louis Undermyer Honor Guest At Dinner

Louis Undermyer, noted author and lecturer, who spoke at chapel, was graciously entertained by the Purmans at a dinner party Thursday afternoon at 5:30 at Miss Anne Erickson's.

Mary Frances Connell, president of the Purmans, greeted the guest and directed them into the dining room. Soft candlelight from yellow candles in silver candlesticks brought out the yellow and green of the table decorations.

These guests were Mr. and Mrs. Undermyer, Dr. and Mrs. Phelps, Dr. and Mrs. E. R. and Mrs. Wheeler, and the members of the Purmans.

Dr. Greene Gives Dinner

Honoring Dr. Nicholas P. Mitchell, head of the political science department of Purman university, Dr. Greene entertained at dinner last Thursday evening. Dr. Mitchell was guest speaker at the A. A. U. W. meeting on Thursday afternoon.

The dinner was given in Joyce hall. The attending guests were Dr. Greene, Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell, and the retiring officers of the A. A. U. W.

Club Banquets

Pai Fui had his club banquet at Miss Anne Erickson's tea room last Thursday. Beta Theta and Sigma Kappa guests entertained with banquets in Charlotte. The home of Mrs. George Townsend was the scene of Phi Lambda Kappa's banquet on Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. G. O. Hasdian went to Monroe, N. C., last Friday where Dr. Hasdian was guest speaker at Wesley Chapel school junior-senior.

Miriam Helleman spent the weekend in Petersburg, Va.

A. T. O. Formal at U. S. C. Chosen "Trip-of-the-Week"

Winthrop girls have danced at fraternal dances, Wake Forest, and Glenwood this month, but the trip everyone is jabbering about as present is the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity formal given at the University of South Carolina. The girls at the Jefferson hotel sat about the lobby and watched the honored girls in flowing evening dresses escorted by the ATO's in tuxedo come and go. Each girl whose date was a member of the fraternity wore a corsage, but the ATO president's girl carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

Before the dance began, the members of the fraternity gathered for the banquet. At ten the music of "The Star Spangled Banner" played their first number for the grand march. Bob Dargan, president of ATO, and Reba Hunt were first in line.

The ATO no-break danced to the tune of "The ATO Dream Girl" was a feature of the evening. Three other no-breaks were on the dance program. Blue and gold streamers hung from every conceivable place in the ball-room of the hotel. Cleverly painted fraternity seals and pins were used for decorations.

GRAHAM PLANS SENIOR TRIP

April 22 Set For Tour Of Points Of Interest At Capital

"Plans are under way for the annual senior trip to Washington, D. C.," announced A. M. Graham, Winthrop business manager, who, together with Mrs. Graham and Dean Kate Glenn Hardin, will accompany the students on the tour. They expect to leave Friday, April 22, and return on Monday morning in time for class on Tuesday.

Turns to points of interest, and around the capital have been arranged for the two days of the trip. On Friday and Saturday the students will be free to attend the theater or to otherwise entertain themselves. All expenses except individual entertainment on these two nights will be paid for by the senior class.

Among the places the party will visit are: The Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the Congressional Library, the White House, the Capitol, Mount Vernon, the Lincoln Memorial, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and the Smithsonian Institution, the National Museum, the Smithsonian Institute, and the Folger Shakespearean Library.

"Oh, yes," added Mr. Graham, the famous class will be in bloom at that time. Judging from past trips, seeing the blossoms mirrored in the water of the Lincoln Memorial Park will be the biggest thrill of all for many of the girls."

Editor's Note: All statements made in this column are based on a common sense. The reporter has seen some of the pictures.

STEVENS—Friday, Saturday "Rebels of Sunbroom Park," Shirley Temple's latest attempt, is not up to par. The musical interpretation of Kate Douglas Wiggin's "Reverend" story does not ring true, and Shirley is definitely not the personality for the part.

Time—Few cinemagoers would be capable of believing to life the character, imagination and enterprise of Rebecca, the immortal child, and perhaps heroine. Smiling, precociously gifted, nine-year-old Shirley Temple is not one of the new.

"An imprudent, romantic, naive, and soap opera, romance setting rhymes, brought a shift of focus to a study New England scene. To the cinema version, warped to suit the rapidly narrowing talent, Shirley brings her dimples, a few previous songs, two tip dances, and connects three adult romances over her own for Shirley."

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday "Prescription for Romance" is a disappointing performance. Pure Lorens—We were supposed to find an evening of Melior, George Kistner and P. G. Wodehouse called into one in such intimate as "Prescription for Romance" and a host of others done in the same fashion which is would be more charming to forget. A secret service man follows an embler through Europe; his adventure is complicated by a girl who believes the villain innocent. Much after particularly funny a supporting role. Fair. No value.

CRACK BITE OF SKULL FRACTURE!

Jacar, the beloved skeleton of the biology department, fell to its death last week. His poor skull was smashed into a thousand pieces. While the anatomy class mourned the loss of Oscar, one sorrowing student composed this epitaph:

Here rests the remains of Oscar's cranium—
Here breaths this wretched paradigm.
He served and served till his bones did ache
And gave and gave for anatomy's sake.

You'd never have known by the life that he led
That his end would have come by losing his head.
And now to him this tribute we pay—
"He died what he could in his hospital way."

(Note: As The Johnsonian goes to press a hospital dispatch says, "Oscar perfectly recuperated—first reports exaggerated.")

TEN UP, TEN DOWN

When champ bowler Mary Sanford sends her ball spinning down the hardwood, watch out for flying ten pins. They just can't stand up under her sure fire.

CONVERSATION OVERHEARD AT THE GYM

"Ick! I'm tired of life; I'm going out in the garden and eat worms."
"Well, you could think of a better suicide; there's no use in committing suicide, too."

FOUR:

What a beautiful sight to see twenty young turf-diggers chip-shoveling in union on the green of the athletic field. Miss Lee claims to have potential Patsy Bergs in her golf classes.

Peek in on the afternoon and evening practices at the gym and you'll agree just both Junior Follies and the May Fete are going to be excellent this year.

Mamie Kendrick deserves a hand for pinch-hitting on the radio program last week. She gave the dances which illustrated Miss Post's talk with less than an hour's notice.

Campus Queen And Her Cohorts

Happy Coleman, as Rita Barnes, a night club singer; Lella Linton, who as Bob Travis gets her to help him put on the Senior Review; and Mary Cary, Rita's "off-green", are discussing the thrill they will have when the curtain rises Tuesday night on the Junior Follies.

Junior Follies Features Campus Romance, Rhythm

Dear Ed—Didn't have time to write news on Junior Follies last history test, but send my notes on rehearsal! Hope they can be of some use.

Yours,
M. W.

'Ed Note—As a new way to write news we give you only the notes of the story that was to have been. Other reporters, please do not follow this style!

Play: The 1939 Junior Follies—"Campus Queen."
Producer: The Junior class of Winthrop—Edith Bedenbaugh, M. W. Woodson, Bessie Lathrop, Carolyn Turckette, Marie Johnson, Lila Pennington, Grace Lott, Miriam Bell, Mildred Laventure, Bertie Wilkey, Thelma Chandler, Nell Liguere, Edith Bedenbaugh, Nora Morgan, Alcinia Davis, Annie M. Graves, Pamela Hall, Louise Bower, Jean Butler, Mary Ruff, Merna Morgan, Annie Mae Baslin, Annie White, Alex. Rickman, Mildred David, Thelma Wells, Mary Darby, Helen Darby, Helen Dixon, Margaret Thelma, Freda Ogden.

Plot: Very good. Has been used before (what one hasn't?), but the juniors have done it up in a convincing and entertaining manner. Centers around a night club singer, Rita Roland, who consents to enroll in Lambert college so she can sing in their band. Rita's friend and partner of Rita, Mary Cary, who has no resistance to Rita's charm. Little Smith, dean of women, My dear, my dear!

Prize: Advise everyone to come for an evening of "delightful entertainment." Girls have been working hard. At rehearsal not even hats that flew in auditorium scared them away. Show must go on and it did! Smoothly, too.
